Speick Thermal Sensitiv Night Cream with a highly active ingredient composition receives a 'very good' rating by ÖKO-TEST

For the November 2020 issue of ÖKO-TEST, the German magazine took a closer look at 50 different natural and conventional night creams with regard to their claims about effectiveness and harmful ingredients. Nine products were rated 'very good', including the Speick Thermal Sensitiv Night Cream.

In focus: Moisturising night creams, suitable for all skin types

The test editors primarily chose moisturising products that are suitable for all skin types. In particular, the ÖKO-TEST laboratory focused on the following criteria: preservatives and fragrances that trigger allergies or irritate the skin as well as mineral oil components in the creams that could cause problems. The packaging was also tested for chlorinated compounds.

"We are delighted to see that our night cream satisfied the test criteria and was rated as very good", says Susanne Gans, head of the laboratory at Speick Naturkosmetik. She continues, "When developing our products, we pay particular attention to the compatibility and effectiveness of our formulations, and ensure that all the production processes are sustainable".

Sensitive care – rich and revitalising

The regulating night cream by Speick Thermal Sensitiv leaves skin feeling nourished and pampered thanks to the benefits of thermal water from the Schlangenbad spa mineral springs. Moisturising, organic aloe vera gel, rich organic shea butter and protective organic camellia oil are used to create the highly active ingredient composition, with a pleasant texture that pampers the skin. Like every Speick product, the Thermal Sensitiv Night Cream also contains the unique extract of the organic high alpine Speick plant from biologically regulated wild harvesting.
